

War Hero Feels Young Man's Obligation To Country Incredible

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of two articles based on an interview with Lincolnite Bob Kerrey, a Vietnam war veteran and advocate of U.S. withdrawal.)

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Every American has an obligation to his country, Congressional Medal of Honor winner Bob Kerrey believes.

"But the obligation is so incredibly large for the young man and so small for people once they pass the military service age," he noted.

"After that, it seems the only obligation is taxation.

Many Do Little

"People are laying down their lives for their country in a cause as questionable as Vietnam. And yet there are many people in this country who will not give up a few minutes a day or a few dollars from their pocket for significant national causes."

The young man is expected to shoulder the greatest burden of risking, or giving, life and limb for his country, "while most people work around the obligation to serve or assist" their nation, Kerrey said.

The military draft system is particularly unfair, Kerrey believes.

Plan Their Lives

"It puts people in a position where they have to plan their lives around the draft," he said.

"But the draft is unnecessary. It is not essential to the national defense."

A volunteer military force is workable, Kerrey believes, and, once operative, it could attract "a cross section of economic classes," rather than only the poor.

Draftees Brutal

For those who suggest that a volunteer system would produce an army of paid killers, Kerrey recalls from his experience in Vietnam that "the men with the brutal killer instinct were draftees."

Pressured by the draft, Kerrey enlisted in the Navy Reserve in 1966. He was commissioned an ensign in 1967 after attending Officer Candidate School, and was later assigned to Vietnam, where in 1969 he won the Medal of Honor for conspicuous valor and "devotion to duty" while leading a raid on Viet Cong forces in which he suffered injuries which cost him part of a leg.

"Young people today are not in the position I was in five years ago," Kerrey said. "We merely assumed the government was right."

Life Too Sacred

"Today young people are saying that life is too sacred to kill needlessly. They feel they have a right to challenge the draft law."

"I believe they have that right to ask questions and receive answers."

If he were in their position today, Kerrey said, he too might go to jail for refusing to recognize the draft.

"It's impossible to say really, because I am not in their position."

Kerrey is sure, however, that he would not go to Canada.

By ending the war and abolishing the draft, Kerrey said, he "would hope that some of the great energy now directed to the military could be diverted toward improving our natural resources."

"I think we should have a civilian job corps if that seems necessary."

Better Use

"Instead of Reserve and National Guard expenditures of questionable merit, we could be training people for forestry and domestic construction."

"We could provide training that people can use and that the country can use."

There are many ways other than military service in which a young man can serve his country, Kerrey said.

His younger brother Bill, 23, is doing it now, he noted.

Bill is a Peace Corps volunteer in Peru. He will complete that service in September of 1972, return to the U.S. for maybe a week or 10 days, and then be required to report to boot camp as an Army draftee.

"He wanted to go the Peace Corps after school," Kerrey said. "He was drafted after he went in, and the induction has only been postponed."

Still Face Draft

So even though he has served his country in the Peace Corps, Bill Kerrey — and the other volunteers — still face the draft after they come home.

Bob left Lincoln last Friday for a trip of two or three weeks to visit his brother.

The two brothers are together in Peru this month — Bob, the war hero who is now working in the peace movement, and Bill, the Peace Corps worker who now faces military conscription.

HEARINGS UNDERWAY...

Consumers Tell Of Being Stuck

New York (AP) — Consumers told a Federal Trade Commission hearing Monday of being stuck with installment contracts on goods and services assigned to banks or finance companies that took no responsibility for the quality of the product.

The FTC is holding three days of hearings on a proposed regulation to outlaw such "holder-in-the-course" contracts. Similar hearings will be held in other cities to give injured consumers opportunity to testify, and the hearings will wind up in Washington in September.

A Staten Island woman, Patricia Ahearn, 25, told the federal officials of getting payment notices from two New Jersey firms, Bond and Credit Clearance House and Budget Associates, after she signed a year's contract with a Staten Island health spa.

She said when she called the health spa to ask about the double billing, she was told to tear up one payment booklet. Not satisfied with the service, she said, she informed the spa she was stopping payments but was told the contract was out of their hands. Now, she testified, she is being sued for the payments and her contract has been sold to a third credit house.

Problems of consumers who do not speak English were related by Sarah Negron and Jose Suarez, who testified through interpreters.

Mrs. Negron said she signed a blank contract thinking it was only to hold a place open for her daughter in a course for medical receptionists. Although she never received a copy of the contract, Mrs. Negron said, she received a letter from a loan company informing her her payment was due.

Calls At Night

"Then I got telephone calls at night," she said, "saying that I had to pay or they would take me to court and take my furniture and things."

Suarez told of signing an English-language contract for a course in English from a language institute.

All he got, he said, was a small tape recorder, which he had no idea how to use.

When he stopped payment, he said, he began to get letters from a loan company and realized for the first time that he was not dealing with the language institute.

William Dixon, associate director for industrial guidance of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, who conducted the hearing, said the proposed regulation did not deal with the problem of contracts in English signed by non-English-speaking customers but the FTC would give the problem further consideration.

Betty Furness In Favor

Testifying in favor of the proposed federal regulation was Betty Furness, chairman of New York State's Consumer Protection Board; Asst. New York State Atty. Gen. Stephen Mindell, and Reginal Williams, director of the Newark, N.J., Consumer Affairs Project.

Williams said English-speaking persons could easily become victims of the holder-in-the-course practice because the language of the contracts is so complicated "they may as well speak Martian."

Mindell called the practice "the most harsh doctrine affecting low-income consumers."

... VEHICLE 60 FEET LONG

FOUR PERSONS DIED . . . in head-on crash of station wagon and car on I-80 west of North Platte.

Collision On I-80 Claims 4

North Platte (UPI) — Lincoln County authorities late Monday identified four persons killed in a crash on Interstate 80 four miles west of here. All were dead at the scene.

Killed in the eastbound car were Floyd D. Kelley, 62, Omaha, and his sister, Lela Kelley Monette, 69, Omaha.

The two victims in a westbound station wagon were Ludmilla M. Beattie, 71, Ravenna, and Mrs. Merle Edna Bady, 70, Broken Bow.

Officers at first reported only three dead, but another body was found later under one of the cars.

Observers said the station wagon, driven by Miss Beattie, apparently crossed over the median into the eastbound lane, where the accident occurred.

The deaths raised Nebraska's 1971 traffic fatality toll to 149, compared with 145 at this time last year.

Omaha Westside Classmates Vie For Top Girls State Post

Two Omaha Westside classmates have won their party's nomination for the top office at 1971 Cornhusker Girls State Monday.

Other girls nominated for state offices include:

Athens (AP) — Nicholas Zambelis, a 26-year-old taxi driver sentenced to an 18-year prison term for plotting to assassinate army-backed Premier George Papadopoulos, escaped from the Aegina Island jail, police sources said Monday.

They said Zambelis sawed off an iron bar in his cell window and escaped Sunday night by lowering himself from window with a bedsheet.

He was convicted and sentenced three years ago.

The National Party platform, which White ran on, called for an agriculture commission of farmers and state officials to solve some of the state's farm problems, a state ecology department and a welfare program that would encourage physically able people on welfare to work for the state.

Divis' Federal Party platform advocated an environmental control agency, stricter enforcement of drinking-driving laws and the legalization of abortion on a personal moral basis.

Moscow — Three Soviet cosmonauts inaugurated the first manned scientific workshop Monday as they docked their Soyuz 11 spacecraft with the space station Salyut that has been orbiting since April. (More on Page 1.)

Use Of Thais Defended

Washington — The State Department said Monday financial and material support that the U.S. was providing Thai "volunteers" in Laos

Major Issue Resolved

Luxembourg — One of the major issues concerning Britain's entry into the Common Market was resolved when agreement was reached on a broadly-worded British commitment to reduce the world role of the pound. There had been speculation that the issue, which had been raised by France, might have been used to veto British entry.

Separate Districts Not Required

Washington — In its first major reapportionment decision under Chief Justice Burger, the Supreme Court ruled that states were not required to give urban Negroes separate legislative districts for the election of "at-large" legislators. (More on Page 2.)

Freedom Of Press Extended

Washington — The Supreme Court extended the constitutional protection of the press against libel suits by private individuals by ruling that the same standards of proving libel against a public figure must be used in proving libel against a private individual. Public figures must prove actual malice before they are entitled to collect libel judgments. (More on Page 2.)

Radiation Limits Strict

Washington — Strict new limits on permissible radiation exposure to the public were proposed by the Atomic Energy Commission.

Unhappy Workers Trap Motorists

New York — Municipal workers, angered by legislative inaction on a pension agreement, trapped hundreds of thousands of motorists in massive traffic jams when they opened movable bridges and abandoned trucks on major highways. Mayor John V. Lindsay said he was ready to ask for the National Guard. Victor Gotbaum, head of the striking union, said he would ignore an injunction to halt the walkout and threatened to escalate it.

'1-Man, 1-Vote' Exceptions OKd

Washington (AP) — The states are not required to carve out separate legislative districts for big-city blacks or any other racial or ethnic group, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

On the contrary, the court held in an appointment case from Indiana, core-city Negroes may be lumped with more populous suburban white voters into one large district that is represented by a number of legislators elected at large.

The 5-3 ruling upsets a federal district court finding that Indianapolis blacks were the victims of racial gerrymandering and were entitled to their own district with state legislators elected by and responsible to them.

Had the Supreme Court agreed, the result could have been political dynamite. Blacks and other inner-city residents would have been assured of a bigger voice in the state capitals.

No Evidence

But the five-man majority, led by Justice Byron R. White, said there was no evidence that the Indianapolis Negroes did not have an equal say in choosing legislative candidates or that they were not allowed to register or vote.

"The mere fact that one interest group or another concerned with the outcome of Marion County elections have found themselves outvoted without legislative seals of its own provides no basis for invoking constitutional remedies," White wrote.

He was supported by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Hugo L. Black, Potter Stewart and Harry A. Blackmun. Justices William O. Douglas, William J. Brennan Jr. and Thurgood Marshall dissented while Justice John M. Harlan said this all proved how foolish the court was to become involved with apportionment in the first place a decade ago.

As the court moved toward adjournment later this month, it handed down several major rulings, including an important advance for freedom of the press.

When a private individual figures in an event of interest to the public he cannot collect libel damages from newspapers, magazines, or radio and television stations unless he can prove the account was intentionally false or was in reckless disregard of the truth.

This new standard came in a 5-3 decision against a former

28 Persons Killed As Plane Crashes

New Haven, Conn. (AP) — An Allegheny Airlines propjet hit a power line while landing in fog, ripped through a row of vacant beach cottages and crashed in two pieces in a marsh Monday. Twenty-eight of the 31 persons aboard were killed.

The Convair 580 — on Flight 485 which originated in Washington, D.C. — was attempting an instrument landing at Tweed-New Haven Airport when it struck the utility line about a mile away, according to airport manager James Malarky.

It was the second major air disaster in the nation in less than 24 hours. A jetliner carrying 49 persons collided with a Marine Corps jet fighter Sunday night near Los Angeles, and 50 persons were believed killed.

The two crashes were the first involving scheduled airliners in the United States in more than one year.

Visibility Limited

Visibility at the time of the New Haven crash — 9:52 a.m. — was estimated at less than two miles.

Rescue workers had to wait several hours for the burned-out fuselage to cool before removing the bodies, most of which were still strapped in seats.

Authorities said the death toll would have been higher had the crash occurred later in the summer when the beach cottages are occupied. Malarky said no one on the ground was hurt.

Nancy Palmeiri of East Haven said she heard three explosions as the plane hit the power line, swept across the tops of cottages and crashed in the marshland.

The wreckage hit the ground in two big pieces: the fuselage and the tail were found about 220 yards apart.

It was a Hughes Air West DC9 that collided with a Marine F4 Phantom jet in California Sunday night.

Federal officials were on the scene in California investigating the crash and the Marine Corps said it would make its own probe.

The radar intercept officer on the Marine plane, said meanwhile, the Hughes Air West airliner hit his plane.

First Lt. Christopher Schiess, 21, the only survivor, said,

U.S. Tries To Hide Military Involvement In Laos

. . . Reporter Says Any Diplomat There Will Call Excuse 'Hogwash'

By TAMMY ARBUCKLE
(c) Washington Star

Vientiane, Laos — American officials admit the U.S. mission in Laos is deliberately hiding the extent of American military involvement here.

"Americans may think they know what we are doing here," one official said in referring to frequent press reports on U.S. activities in Laos, "but we do not want Americans to look into their television sets and be able to see Americans going into action in Laos."

The official made his remark in a complaint about an American Broadcasting Co. team led by Ted Copple which tried to film Americans getting into a helicopter in the south Laos combat area two weeks ago.

"What we are doing here in Laos is totally inconsistent with our kind of society," a top U.S. diplomat here told a correspondent recently. "We are fighting a war by covert means and an open society can't tolerate that."

The diplomat explained that the United States was breaking the Geneva peace accords in Laos and "we don't want to advertise it."

The same official feels the embassy's policy of secrecy has been successful in not advertising U.S. infringements of the accords.

"You could write a lot worse activity over northern Laos and parts of Laos other than the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

These activities — anything from 60 to 300 sorties a day — are described in Saigon communiques as combat support missions in Laos for Royal Lao forces.

There is no further information, such as the number of sorties, the nature of the targets, the results, etc.

In Vientiane, the air attache's office in charge of preparing these strikes refuses even to speak to correspondents.

The Runaround

A favorite tactic in Saigon is to refer a correspondent to Vientiane for information. In Vientiane, Americans suggest a correspondent should go to Saigon for information.

To claim that such information is withheld for national or military security reasons is somewhat ridiculous.

Obviously the North Vietnamese or their Pathet Lao allies know the strike was made. It's difficult to see how the number of sorties and their cost could help the enemy.

Information on targets and strikes is given in South Vietnam after operations. Why not on Laos?

The only answer to this seems to be that President Nixon, despite his promise in March 1970 to "continue to give the American people the fullest possible information" on the U.S. role in Laos does not wish the public to realize just how large U.S. air support of the Laos government is daily and that air strikes are not limited to the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Then there is the matter of the U.S. ground involvement in Laos.

There can be no doubt this includes a combat ground involvement by personnel hired by the Central Intelligence Agency.

Laotians and Meos talk constantly of American "commando leaders" based at Pakkiao, a few miles southeast of the U.S. base at Long Tieng in northeast Laos.

"Commando leaders" there are officers hired from the U.S. military by the CIA to run Lao and other ethnic guerrilla units as well as Thai units.

These guerrilla units are stationed in front of Royal Lao regular troops and take the brunt of combat with North Vietnamese regulars.

The Lao military, whose understanding of guerrilla warfare is limited, berate the CIA when these units retreat from positions under shellfire, or let North Vietnamese through to attack regular Lao units.

The high ethnic casualties are being replaced by Thai regular troops who are fighting in the Laotian mountains.

Negroes Can Sue Citizens Plotting Against Their Rights

Washington (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the so-called Ku Klux Klan law of 1871 permits Negroes to sue for damages against private citizens who conspire to deprive them of their rights.

The court voted unanimously to reverse a ruling by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that four Negroes beaten by two white men during the "James Meredith march" in Mississippi in 1966 had no standing to sue. The lower court said only conspiracies by state or local law enforcement officials came under the law.

The high court opinion for the first time gives blacks attacked "on the highways" the right to seek monetary redress where there is a conspiracy to deprive them of their rights.

Justice Potter Stewart said in the opinion the lower court mistakenly had relied on a 20-year-old Supreme Court opinion where "in order to avoid difficult constitutional questions" the court construed the law to reach only conspiracies under color of state law.

The 1871 law, adopted after the Civil War to curb the actions of "armed bands of assassins," refers to two or more persons who "conspire or go in disguise on the highway"

Kennedy Suspects President To Use War For Re-Election

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Monday that President Nixon apparently is continuing the Vietnam war now so that he can "play his last great card for peace" when it will help him most in a bid for re-election.

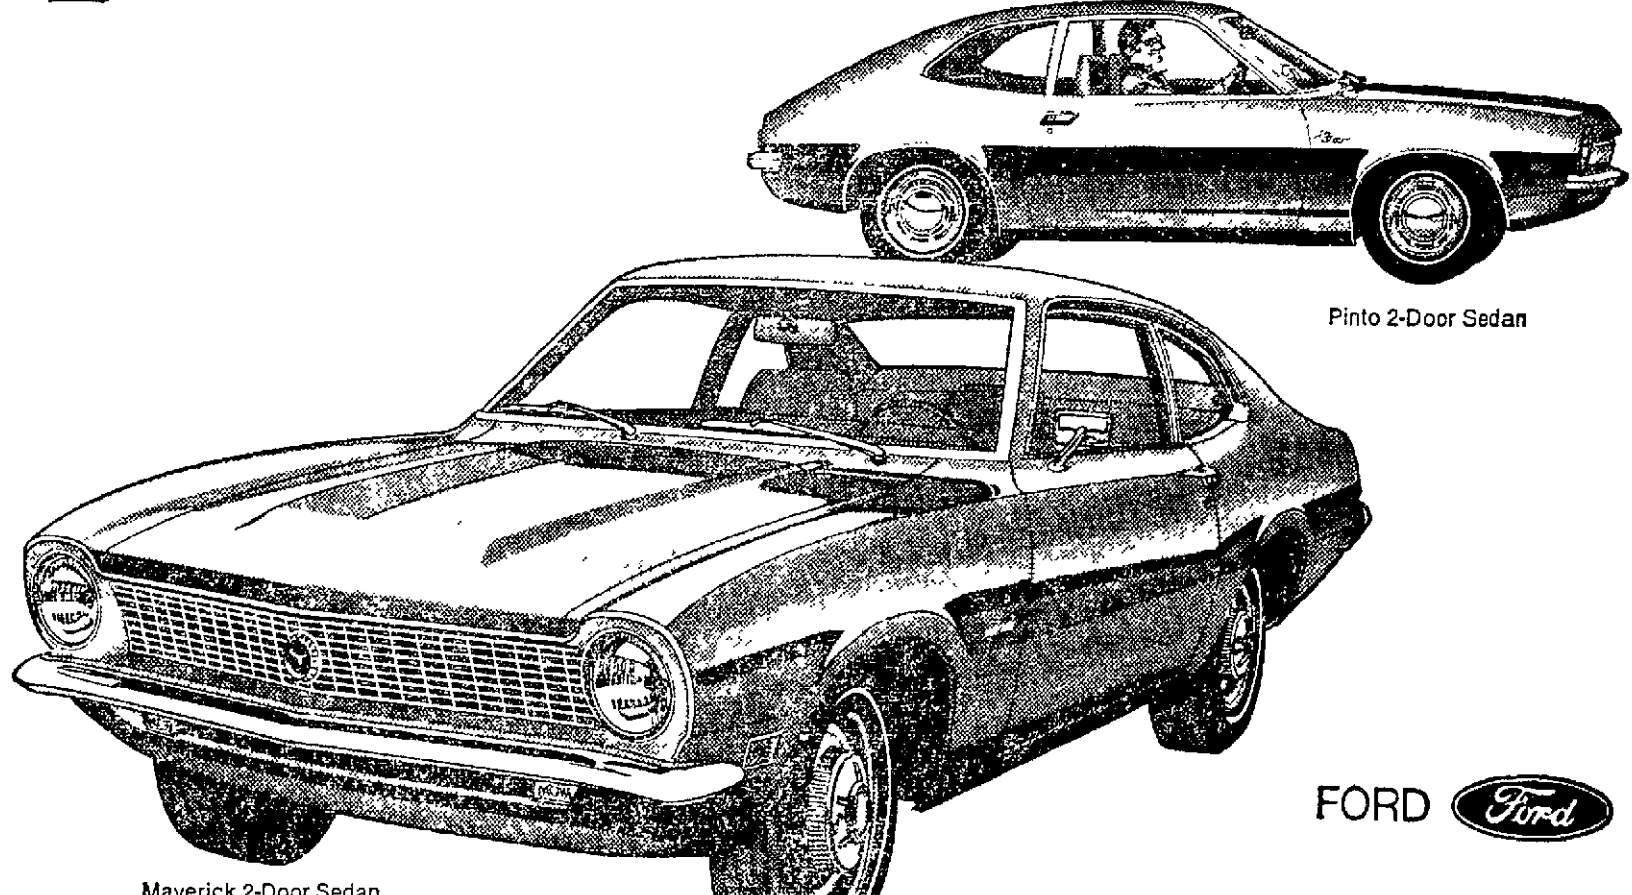

The Massachusetts Democrat made the statement in a speech prepared for a group of antiwar lawyers who took part in the opening of a lobbying campaign intended to pressure Congress into ending the war.

"How many more Americans soldiers must die, how many innocent Vietnamese civilians must be killed, so that the final end of the war may be announced in 1972 instead of 1971?" Kennedy asked.

"At last the ultimate and cynical reality of our policy is beginning to dawn on the American people. The only possible excuse for continuing the discredited policy of Vietnamizing the war, now and in the months ahead, seems to be the President's intention to play his last great card for peace at a time closer to November 1972 when the chances will be greater than the action will benefit the coming presidential campaign."

Kennedy was one of several featured speakers to the National Convocation of Lawyers To End the War, affiliated with the Lobby of Americans waging the campaign to get Congress to write a deadline for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina.

Scottsbluff Dike Work Is 'Ahead Of Schedule'

By United Press International
Work is progressing "ahead of schedule" on the 3½ mile dike around the city of Scottsbluff, according to Mayor C. A. Thomas, and the work should be completed in time for the peak of the snowmelt from the Rocky Mountains, possibly late next week.
The Omaha district office of the Army Corps of Engineers said the Scottsbluff work is about 65% complete. The corps also said work began Monday on a ring levy at radio station KSTP. Both projects were expected to be completed June 12, in time for the first sign of higher water around the city.
The 2½ mile dike at Bridgeport was about 50% complete, the corps said, and is affording protection at the present river stage. That project would reportedly be done by June 12.
Mayor Thomas said workers were completing one dike Monday around the southwest housing section, which he said "was so badly inundated" two weeks ago from heavy rains.

"They've also got the loop completed around our city park and zoo," he said. "so now they will begin the buildup of the dike to 3½ feet."
Watering Station
Thompson said because some private wells were contaminated in the southwest section, a watering station will be provided in the zoo park. The municipal water supply was not affected, he said.
The North Platte River was reported slightly higher Monday at Scottsbluff and Bridgeport, because of some heavy rains at the end of last week in eastern Wyoming, according to the National Weather Service office in Scottsbluff.
At North Platte, City Engineer Jack Carlson said the higher water was due to in-

Fremont Killed, Husband Wounded Wrestling For Gun

Santa Rosa, N.M. (UPI) — A Nebraska woman was killed and her husband wounded Sunday as the two wrestled for a pistol in the family car following an altercation with two youths.
Santa Rosa police said Mrs. Dolly Pinkerton, 30, of Fremont, Neb., was shot through the neck with a .44 pistol and died instantly.
The woman's husband, Lewis Pinkerton, was taken to a Santa Rosa hospital with a bullet wound in the arm. Police said the same bullet which killed Mrs. Pinkerton apparently pierced the man's arm.
The couple's six children, four girls and two boys, and several pets in the car, escaped injury.
Police said witnesses told them the shooting occurred as the Pinkerton vehicle was proceeding through Santa Rosa hauling a trailer.

Truck Carrying TNT Destroyed; Road Is Damaged

Minden, Iowa (AP) — A semi-trailer truck carrying 40,000 pounds of TNT burst into flames and was destroyed early Monday on Interstate 80 two miles west of Minden.
No one was injured.
The driver, James Miller, 26, of Fenton, Mo., said there were explosions after the fire erupted.
The Iowa Highway Commission said 65 feet of pavement was destroyed by heat. It was one hour before firemen could get close enough to the truck to fight the flames.
The truck, enroute from Joliet, Ill., to Grand Island, Neb., was loaded with explosives belonging to the U.S. government.
Federal alcohol, tobacco and firearms agents joined Iowa highway patrolmen in the investigation.

Norfolk Woman Blown From Mobile Home Escapes Injury

By the Associated Press
A Norfolk woman, Jean Stanosheck, escaped unhurt when she was blown from a mobile home at Norfolk when strong winds hit that area Sunday night.
The gale winds or a small tunnel overturned two trailers and a new truck parked in front of the Walker-Meyer furniture store at Norfolk.
The front wall of the store and part of the roof were ripped off.
One of the trailers landed on a pickup truck with camper attached and another mobile home, both of which suffered considerable damage.
The Norfolk storm was part of the turbulent weather crossing eastern Nebraska Sunday night.
Funnel clouds were also reported in the Lincoln, Omaha, Beatrice and Beatrice areas.
Minor Damage
An Offutt Air Force Base spokesman said a funnel hit twice in that area — near a runway and at the Capehart housing area. Damage was reported minor.
Douglas County Deputy Sheriff Wayne Neely said five trailers were destroyed by wind at the Parktown Trailer Court west of Omaha. North Omaha had hail and winds gusting to 70 miles an hour.
Tornado clouds were sighted near Petersburg in Boone County, south of Grand Island, west of Valparaiso and south of St. Libory.

Members Of Environment Panel React To Interview With Mumford

By SAM THORSON
Outstate Nebraska Bureau
Omaha—The Regional Environment Conference of the U.S. National Commission for UNESCO continued here Monday with a panel discussion in which representatives of various disciplines touching on environmental education reacted to a videotaped interview with Lewis Mumford, author of "The Myth of the Machine."
Moderator James S. Gardner of the University of Iowa geography department suggested that Mumford's basic argument is that man's task is not to stop technological advancement, but rather to detach from it and control it, and that each individual must "muster his subjective resources" and learn to make selective use of technological facilities.

"The human person has always been the starting point of effects," Gardner paraphrased Mumford. "The most solid structures and institutions collapse after the formative ideas that brought them about dissolve."
Maryknoll College student Stephen DeMott countered Mumford by suggesting that "it is not an easy task, confronting the machine or changing the myths by which people live."
Many young people have become aware that "the myth of the mighty dollar" does not meet their needs or even match reality, DeMott said.

relations among all nations and all peoples."
"All governments have to rely on the life of the mind," Lyons said, "because ideas come before action. We are also concerned with moral choice because problems in UNESCO continually bring up the needs of that choice," since member nations look at problems and policies differently.
Since World War II, Lyons said, UNESCO has helped "build up bases of cooperation in all fields."
"The assumption is that by working together, using the mind and making moral choices, we will begin to strengthen those forces which resolve conflicts among without recourse to violence."

Headon Crash Kills Peters

Dunning (AP) — Daniel J. Peters, 45, of Hay Springs lost his life in a headon collision four miles west of Dunning on Highway 2 Sunday.
Peters and other members of his family were en route home from Grand Island after attending capping ceremonies for their daughter, a nursing school graduate.
Peters' wife Agnes, 43, was seriously injured.
Two other occupants of the car, Richard Peters, 63, of Hay Springs, and his wife, Ione, 59, were treated and released.
The other driver, James R. Christen, 21, of Anselmo, was to be transferred to Lincoln for treatment of serious injuries.

Body Of Second Drowning Victim Located In Lake

Center (UPI) — The body of Donald Walling, 30, Fremont, a Memorial holiday weekend drowning victim, was found Monday by an Army Engineers boat crew.
Deputy Sheriff Wes Eisenbeiss said the body was found one mile above the powerhouse on the Nebraska side of Lewis and Clark Lake. It had apparently washed downstream about five miles from where the boat carrying four persons had been swamped.
The body of Brian Holzerland, 11, Fremont, who drowned in the same accident, was recovered Sunday night.
The other two persons aboard the boat had swum ashore and were rescued.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The 1972 primary election will have a long ballot but the length is not likely to have any relationship to its extent of controversy. The ballot will be long due to 20 constitutional revisions approved by the Legislature for submission to voters in the 1972 primary.

Only three bills contain what would appear at this time to be the seeds of much controversy, the other 17 seeming to be of a relatively routine and corrective nature. And only one of the three possibly controversial ones is likely to generate much heat.

The other two offer a clear basis for difference of opinion but little real room for argument. One lowers the voting age to 18 for all state and local elections. People may differ on this one but there really isn't much to argue about on it. Either you think the change is o.k. or you don't like it, with your opinion not subject to much change.

Another measure is somewhat in the same category, although a little more subject to debate. It would allow state senators to set their own pay, now fixed at $400 a month. Voters would have to decide two things here, whether the present level of pay is right and whether state senators should have the responsibility to determine the matter for themselves.

One might engage in a long discussion of government theories in arriving at a decision in this matter but we suspect that such will generally not be the case. The decision of voters will probably boil down to whether they want high salaries for senators or not.

Those who want higher salaries will vote for the amendment and those who want the salaries unchanged will vote against it. This is not really what the question is but that is the way it is likely to be interpreted.

Some will argue, of course, that the bill simply authorizes the Legislature to set the pay of its members, but does not set that pay. The old idea that this is just enabling legislation will be trotted out and used again.

The enabling legislation argument is one we have never had much sympathy with. Our feeling is that if you don't want something done, better not empower anyone to do it. Once you vote for an enabling act, the vote is inevitably cited as an endorsement of the issue or program involved.

In the last session, the vote in favor of allowing the Legislature to reclassify and/or exempt business and agricultural equipment and inventories was used as an indication that the people favored the exemption of this property.

The people said the Legislature could exempt it, not that it should be exempt. What the vote technically means is that the Legislature is to use its own best judgment in the matter but the vote is seldom interpreted this way once it has been delivered.

Another constitutional change subject to controversy is one changing the power of the Legislature in matters of appropriation. Now, the senators need 33 or two-thirds of their members to enact an appropriation over the governor's recommendations. The same number is required to override an appropriations veto by the state's chief executive officer.

The change proposed to voters in 1973 would make the appropriations vote for senators the same as any other veto vote. This would mean it would take 30 members or three-fifths of the senators to appropriate funds beyond the recommendations of the governor or override an appropriations veto.

This issue really goes back to the 1969 session and its confrontation with former Gov. Norbert Tiemann over capital expenditures appropriations. The controversy ended up in the courts and Tiemann's position prevailed, leaving a number of capital expenditures down the drain.

No such confrontation took place between Gov. J. James Exon and the 1971 Legislature but the issue remains one of potential conflict. Regardless of who the governor is, the constitutional requirements now for 33 votes on budget items beyond the governor's recommendations seems like a harsh one.

At any rate, this change is one that is bound to generate some controversy and its impact could conceivably be significant in the future. With 20 constitutional changes to pass upon, voters are fortunate in that most of them carry the non-controversial tag.

The Old People's Lobby Is Proving Very Effective

WASHINGTON — The old people's lobby is getting tough — and effective. Washington has already felt its punch and will feel it again when the three-million-member National Council of Senior Citizens meets in Washington.

The old people know how to work within the system. But they are no more disposed than their grandchildren to say "yessir" to the government. The administration apparently listens more closely to the representatives of the nation's 20 million voters aged 65 or over than it does to the equal number who will be 18-21 in 1972. Spokesmen for Senior Citizens and other old people's organizations were granted a May 14 audience with President Nixon.

They took the occasion to present the President with a long list of complaints and recommendations. "We are aware that in some instances we have been rather blunt," they told Nixon.

The old people protested that the agency handling preparations for the White House Conference — the Administration on Aging in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — had been cut back in the Nixon budget. The protest worked. HEW announced April 27 that the cut-back had been rescinded. Instead of asking $29.5 million, it would seek $39.5 million for fiscal 1972. The agency funds a number of programs that provide jobs and services for the elderly.

Senior Citizens also credits the protests for the last-minute decision of the House Ways and Means Committee to put a five per cent increase in Social Security benefits in the omnibus welfare bill. This five per cent will be on top of this year's 10 per cent increase. Senior citizens think 20 per cent would be more appropriate.

Much of Senior Citizens' punch and political savvy comes from its 68-year-old president, Nelson Cruikshank is an old-time trade unionist warrior in the welfare field. For nearly 20 years before his retirement, he was the AFL-CIO's top man on social security. Cruikshank's labor background may account for the long reach of some of the planks in the council program. For example, the council will fight for more Medicare benefits — but it prefers to campaign for National Health Insurance, an old labor cause.

Still another bridging of the generation gap in the old people's crusade has come with the entrance of Ralph Nader, the consumer rights advocate, into the field. Nader has invited retired professional people to join his young volunteers in investigating and publicizing the myriad ways in which the elderly are victimized by society. One of their duties, a Nader aide told Editorial Research Reports, will be to "monitor government programs for the aged." The new Nader crusade has already been dubbed the "Retired People's Liberation Movement."

Davis Fund Controversial

The action of the United Presbyterian Church's National Council on Church and Race in contributing to a legal defense fund for black militant Angela Davis apparently has had an unsettling effect on a sizeable portion of the church's membership.

Miss Davis, a former assistant professor of philosophy at UCLA and an avowed communist, is awaiting trial on charges of murder and conspiracy stemming from a shoot-out at the Marin County Civic Center in California last August which took four lives, including that of a judge. The Council on Church and Race reported to the church's General Assembly earlier this year that they had given $10,000 to a fund for her legal defense. The assembly did not condemn that decision.

A news report from Omaha states that members and officials of the 38 churches in the Omaha Presbytery have scheduled meetings this week to gather opinions "of the people" on the contribution and so that "all the facts" surrounding the council's action can be made clear to members of the church. Similar interest undoubtedly has been or will be expressed all around the country. According to the news report, an Omaha minister said that the council's action cannot be negated, but future actions could possibly be affected by opinions drawn at the meetings.

It should be obvious to Presbyterians and to members of any other denomination which might consider such an action that the council was endorsing neither Miss Davis's politics nor her behavior and the only presumption it might have been making was that of innocence until guilt is proven. The council affirmed the position that it is difficult for radicals and members of minority groups to get equal treatment before the law and that that was the main reason it contributed to the Davis defense fund.

Perhaps the Presbyterian Church, or any church for that matter, could find a better way of serving the objective of equality in its use of the membership's money. One that might serve a greater number of people, for example. Miss Davis is a celebrity and certainly will not be lacking for financial assistance. But it is important that churches keep in mind what the council was demonstrating by its action. If there is to be a dynamic future for the churches, strong stands will have to be taken in the area of social injustice.

Changes Cloud Future

Two changes prominent on the educational scene today provide cause to wonder about the nature of our future. The changes are the just announced increase in tuition at Nebraska and the reorganization of junior college and community colleges into 18 districts with heavy state support.

The higher tuition at the university will tend to limit enrollment there, although it cannot be said at this point that there are deserving young men and women who will now find it impossible to pursue a course of higher education. But the change will discourage some from attending, as will such things as the difficulties encountered this year by graduates in securing employment.

On the other hand, the quality and availability of a combined academic and vocational education is going to improve, in all likelihood, with the state's assuming in 1973 some 75 per cent of the operational costs of junior and community colleges. Thus,

Idea That Bigness Cures All Proven Wrong; Both Britain, U.S. Prove Case For Smallness

LONDON — One of the most original thinkers in Britain is a sociologist named Michael Young. "Sociologist" is really too dusty a word: Young is a provocateur of new social ideas and organizations. He started the consumer movement in Britain. His idea for education by television has flowered in the Open University. His book, "The Rise of the Meritocracy," showed in utopian satire how those who rise to power on merit may be as intolerant and stifling as the old aristocracy.

In a speech the other day, Young sounded an important new theme, or, rather, he transformed an old one by the fresh almost paradoxical method of this argument. He made the case for smallness in human organization.

For a long time, he said, we have believed that bigness brings efficiency in business and government.

But the remedy no longer works, Young said: "It is fine for computers and other machines. They thrive on size. But for a large complex of people, the whole has become less than the sum of its parts. . . . There is hardly a large organization in the country which has not gone downhill over the last quarter of a century."

He asked: Was the British post office as efficient as it used to be? The BBC? The Labor Party? The University of London? The Royal Air Force? He knew that his listeners would answer no. And he added some telling American examples: The Bell Telephone Company, the U.S. Army, New York City, the University of California.

"Almost all large bodies," he said, "have become afflicted by a new wasting disease, gigantism."

Why does growth bring inefficiency? Young said the answer was simple. The old idea of individual freedom and integrity had grown stronger in our century, he said, and increased civil liberty and social welfare. But that made large organizations hard to manage:

"Bigness can work only if people are willing to accept orders coming from the top. This they are becoming less and less willing to do; orders seem to conflict with the old notions of human dignity in their new, even more individualist forms."

Big organizations had become aware of the problem, Young said.

All those who have been in large bureaucracies will recognize the disease described by Michael Young. But his cure will still be hard for many to accept: "Seize every opportunity to reduce the scale of organization. Make things smaller, not bigger, in industry and in the public services, and often efficiency as well as humanity will be enhanced."

Britain does have some of the symptoms of gigantism, especially the tendency of politicians and businessmen to equate size with prestige. But things are not too bad. Local committees and controlling boards in many kinds of public affairs provide a human scale. And the small physical size of the country itself gives her a great advantage in encouraging community.

Young's analysis has more urgent and more poignant meaning for the United States. We are a continental country and have always been so proud of that — what middle-aged American does not remember thrilling in the sweep of America across the map? And in so many ways we have worshipped size: big business, Whitmanesque landscape, even giant apples and strawberries.

And now we know it does not work. The citizen begins to feel what Young articulates. The big businessman tries to find ways of allowing smallness and initiative inside the huge cor-

Walton Column

Lincoln, Neb.
The article by Don Walton on the Monday morning editorial page of The Star was one of the clearest and most relevant comments on contemporary Memorial Day traditions that I have seen.

He was correct in asking that we not supply any more young men from either side for our future Memorial Days. Let's do shake young hands next year instead of burying young dead bodies killed between Memorial Day, 1971, and that of 1972.

Mr. Walton also truthfully pointed to Mr. Nixon's real role in the war picture. While some seriously anxious citizens are upset over the criticism the President of the United States is receiving, I was very glad to have Don Walton correctly allude to the fact Nixon supported our Vietnam involvement before Lyndon Johnson was even vice president. So it is not entirely true for Nixon to say he "inherited" the mess, since he helped make it.

Also, the responses Nixon has made to end the war came not out of praise for him but because Americans exercised their right to speak and told Nixon they were fed up.

I hope Mr. Walton hangs around quite awhile with his honest observations.

Representatives?

Crete, Neb.
Recently I returned from the Vietnam Veterans Against The War activities in Washington, D.C. While there, I spoke to our senators and representatives concerning legislation to end the war in Indochina by setting a definite withdrawal date and cutting off military appropriations for that war. These two issues will be voted on in the Senate and House sometime after June 10.

After talking with these individuals, it is quite understandable why the youth of today say the System doesn't work. Senator Curtis, Senator Hruska and Congressman Martin (Third District) all indicated that their minds were made up on the pending legislation and that it would not make any difference how much mail they received, they would still vote against the measures to end the war. This appalling admission amplifies the fact that our representatives are no longer representing the people. Instead they use the outdated arguments that the people are not well informed on the issues, and then continue to vote as they please.

The question I now ask myself is: Was it worth giving four years of my life (one year being in Indochina) in the service of this country — was it really worth it if our government has eroded to the point where representatives are no longer representing the people?

The Volunteers

We would like very much to take this means of thanking the volunteer firemen in southwest Lancaster District, along with our many friends and neighbors, who so diligently fought the fire which completely destroyed the farm elevator and all its contents some two weeks ago. Without the exhaustive efforts of these men, other buildings would have burned. We are still on guard as it continues to smolder and on occasion, flames are quite vicious.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My little boy is a little over 2 years old and has just started to stutter. He does it most of the time, not just when he is excited. What should we do or not do about this?—R.T.

If stuttering is going to start, that's about the time—between the ages of 2 and 4.

There can be a difference in the way you handle the child—is it a new case of stuttering, as in your boy's situation, or is it a case that has persisted for a long time?

For the child just starting to stutter, here are some suggestions, and the first one is, I think, by far the most important:

Don't make an issue of the stutter. Stuttering can occur when a small child is just beginning to make sentences, and as he becomes more used to talking in sentences, he relaxes and the stutter fades away. So don't make a big thing of it. Often it's a difficulty that he will overcome, left to himself.

Review your handling of the child. Does either father or mother tend toward excessive discipline, or demand too much perfection from the little boy? Too much parental dominance can be a factor in stuttering.

Don't display impatience or displeasure at his stuttering.

He isn't doing it on purpose. His thoughts are running faster than his vocal muscles can respond, so the shaping of the words tends to choke up—like the olives at the neck of an olive bottle. Don't add to his tensions.

Be patient. Give him whatever time he needs to get his thoughts formed into words.

If the stuttering doesn't stop, or lessen substantially in a year or two, or anyway by the time he is ready to start school, it is time to get some professional help. Many school districts have speech correction facilities. But if yours doesn't, either your doctor or the school should refer you to a speech correction center.

In the above I've referred to the stutterer as "he." That's because stuttering occurs several times as frequently in boys as in girls.

The following letter is significant:

Dear Doctor: We had this problem (stuttering) when our son was small. He could also talk very plainly, so people, especially some neighbors, would tease him, like this, "Your daddy doesn't know how to drive his truck."

His reply was plainly defensive of his father, and everyone would laugh because he got riled up so, and talked so well.

The frustration from this defense of his father to these ignorant adults caused such tension that the stutter became so bad that in two months you could scarcely understand him at all.

The solution, and 100 per cent recovery from the stutter, was to move to another neighborhood where all of this type of tension was removed entirely. In two weeks the stuttering ended.—Mrs. D.J.I.

Orthopedic Hospital

Arcadia, Neb.

As I am a close relative of a child who has spent time in the Orthopedic Hospital in Lincoln and will have to spend more time in some orthopedic hospital somewhere, I was burned up to think that we the people had elected such heartless people as members of our Legislature. They have not complied with the wishes of the people. They were very hush-hush about it, too.

So what if it will cost to update it? They update everything else. There is money spent to beautify the Statehouse grounds, there is the new fieldhouse for the university, and worse yet, voting all that money to screen junk yards. All this would build a new hospital. Those junk yards didn't hurt my eyes a fraction as much as it hurts one's heart to see a crippled child.

Had the Legislature asked the people, I'm sure they would have more than okayed any cost of a good hospital. Everyone who voted for its closing and Exon in okaying it should get red-faced and hide every time they see or hear of a crippled child.

Several families from near here moved to Lincoln to be near their crippled children. Must they move again?

I am for the fieldhouse, but must the able-bodied always be favored? Why not help others to walk?

Let's all request reconsideration of that unfair and unjust bill.

HEART-BROKEN.

X-ray. This seems to be well over the amount considered dangerous. Since the damage has already been done, I would like to know if there is any preventive action against cancer. I am 24.—G.F.

All of your X-rays put together probably add up to a total of about one second of exposure, and I don't know where you got the idea that, "It is well over the amount considered dangerous," or anywhere near it.

Evidently you needed the X-rays for diagnostic purposes. That one second of exposure time isn't going to cause cancer, so just forget about it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: An eye specialist tells me I have a pterygium on my eye. He said it is tissue of some kind and it grows and I should have it removed. Do you know anything about these things and is it a serious operation?—Mrs. N.K.

A pterygium is a fold in the outer layer of the conjunctive (the tissue which covers the eyeball). It is triangular in shape, usually originating at the inner edge of the eye.

The point of the triangle grows very slowly but it may in time grow over the cornea of the eye, thus interfering with vision.

If such encroachment of the center part of the eye seems likely, then the pterygium can be removed—and should be removed BEFORE it reaches the stage of obstructing vision.

When you asked whether it is a "serious operation," that depends on what you mean by "serious." It is, obviously, a delicate procedure, and should be done by an eye specialist, but it is essential to have it done if it is threatening your eyesight.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Reader questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Rail Board OK'd By City Council

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

Formation of a Railroad Transportation Safety District was unanimously approved by the City Council Monday.

The district, which will be directed by three council members and three Lancaster County commissioners, is intended to eliminate railroad crossing conflicts. It is believed to be the first governmental unit of its kind in the country.

City Council Chairman Dick Hartsock and new members Steve Cook and W. Richard Baker were named to the governmental board.

Taxing Authority

The district is expected to begin operation later this month and will have the power to levy up to .75 mills a year to accomplish its purposes.

Chief concerns will be relocation of railroad tracks and improved safety at crossings in the city and the county.

Council members also approved the appointments of Arthur Duerchner, an architect, to the City-County Planning Commission and Albert Mulder Jr., president of Lincoln Planning Mill, to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Prior to the council session, Councilwoman Helen Boosalis questioned Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf about what was being done to coordinate efforts on housing, recalling campaign pledges by he and newly elected council men.

"We have to move quickly on this. There isn't much time left to be lost," said Mrs. Boosalis, who has been a strong backer of city leadership in the housing area.

Schwartzkopf said that he will be meeting with city staff members later this week on the subject of housing coordination. He said he would set up a meeting for next week with the council to decide which way to go on the housing matter.

On another matter, Schwartzkopf said he frowned on a proposed ordinance to allow licensed retailers to sell liquor, including beer on Sunday, July 4.

The ordinance proposes that on and off-sale beer be sold from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and on-sale liquor from 6-10 p.m.

Councilman Merle Hale said he had received complaints about the proposal from package liquor dealers. The dealers, Hale said, are prevented from selling package liquor on Sunday by state law.

Lincoln Firm Acquires California Property

A Lincoln-based firm which owns a controlling interest in three life insurance companies has acquired, through a subsidiary, a 6,000-acre recreational community development in northern California.

Superior Equity of California, Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Superior Equity Corp. of Lincoln, has acquired the Lake California development, 145 miles north of Sacramento, from River Development Corp.

Roger D. Sack, president of Superior Equity of Lincoln, said the California subsidy will assume approximately $8 million of debt in the transaction.

Sack said the firm will continue development of the private lake community, located along 4 1/2 miles of the Sacramento River. The land will be subdivided into residential lots and a 250-acre lake, marina, country club and golf course.

Superior Equity of California has entered into a joint venture partnership with Envirotec General Corp. for development and operation of the property, Sack said.

Councilmen Ponder Bicycling Laws

The popularity of bicycling has increased to the point that some City Council members are wondering whether present city laws on bicycling are adequate.

Councilman Bob Sikyta, who said he feels many adult riders are unaware of the laws regarding bicycling, mused that one person he knows was stopped by a policeman — who clocked the bicyclist on radar doing 41 miles per hour in a 25 mph zone.

The question facing the policeman, he said, was whether a bicyclist could be ticketed for speeding. The bicyclist ended up with a warning ticket.

Sikyta said he feels there needs to be some program to educate riders on the laws, possibly information distributed at a time a person purchases or licenses one's bicycle.

He also urged the law department to review whether present city ordinances are adequate or need some changes.

Hometown Services Are Usually Your Best Buys

by Bob Campbell Bryant Airconditioning and Heating Co.

After many many years of experience in and as a Sales Engineer, I have run across so many dissatisfied people who have purchased equipment from large corporations and have discovered that both the product and service have been less than they were told it would be.

Recently, for example, I was visiting with a customer and was told that he had to wait 6 weeks for a replacement part to his air conditioning system. He was told that the part was not stocked locally and no firm in Lincoln had a part that could be adapted to his unit. The customer had bought the Service Policy which covered labor and parts but still had to wait.

This is so wrong! A hometown business such as Bryant specializes in a limited number of fields . . . they can, and do, stock replacement parts . . . There is hardly ever a delay . . . That's the whole secret . . . Why should my customer purchase a unit from a company that attempts to specialize in 50 fields. Dealing with specialists such as Bryant insures quality both as to product, and installation . . . We don't do many things but those we do we do right.

We've been talking about service in past weeks and the thought that comes to mind is "Why should my customers have to pay a high service charge to offset losses in other areas?" That's exactly why these costs are getting out of line . . . At Bryant you pay a fair fee for an excellent job of servicing . . . Why pay more?

A Hometown business is competition . . . and you can and do get a professional touch and not a shoddy product or service. Call Bryant and get the full story . . . 467-1111 . . . We like to think that at Bryant "We do our thing" . . . better and more reasonably than others.

Job Change Often Means Loss Of Accumulated Pension Rights

By ROBERT PETERSON
This column often hears from folks who have worked years for a company and were then laid off, or resigned to take a job in another company. To their sorrow they learn that termination means loss of accumulated pension rights in the company they've left.

"I worked for this big electric company in Cleveland 16 years," writes C.R. 51. "They always bragged what a great pension program they had and a personnel man once told me I'd get over $300 a month plus my Social Security when I retired at 65. But last year my wife was in a bad accident and kept wanting to move back to Detroit near her two sisters. So I resigned after finding a new job in Dearborn. But when I checked at the electric company about my pension they said that by quitting I'd lost all rights to any pension from them."

Widows are usually left out too. My husband worked 32 years at the oil refinery here," writes a woman in Houston. "He was looking forward to a nice company pension plus Social Security when he retired. But he died suddenly last January at age 59. When I checked with the refinery they said their pension plan didn't provide anything for widows. It seems so wrong."

You're right, madam. The whole private pension complex in this country needs study and regulation. Millions of workers are being deprived of their just due. Studies show that most people switch jobs several times during their work careers. As a consequence millions end up at retirement age with only the slim pension credit accumulated from their final employer.

It's strange that the government has had such a casual attitude toward private pension funds. Uncle Sam sticks his nose into just about everything from the width of car bumpers to the size of rest rooms in day care centers. But he gives scant attention to the $130 billion currently controlled by some 33,000 private pension plans.

This lack of federal concern has spawned assorted shenanigans. Many pensions plans are poorly funded. Others make no provision for protecting accumulated pension assets in the event a company goes bankrupt. And it's no secret that tricky operators in charge of many private pension, both in industry and unions, have been tempted to dip into the till and use funds for personal gain or investments of dubious purpose.

What's the solution? It's obvious we need a federal law decreeing that an employee has a vested right to private pension credits earned in a company — rights which accompany him no matter how many times he changes jobs and rights which provide for this widow when he dies. This is the way Social Security works and it's the only just and equitable way to operate private pension programs.

Fortunately, Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.) has a bill presently before Congress which will establish a regulatory agency to supervise and standardize this country's private pension systems. One hates to see the government get any bigger, but it's obvious we need someone with a big stick to insure that employees retain credits to company pensions they've earned — no matter how many times they switch jobs.

Union's Rehearing Request Rejected

The Nebraska Supreme Court has turned down a rehearing request by one of three unions involved in a recent Supreme Court decision regarding municipal employee representation in Grand Island, it was learned Monday.

The motion had been filed by the International Association of Firefighters, Local 647, AFL-CIO.

Journal-Star Want Ads Bring Results—473-7451

The high court upheld the Court of Industrial Relations ruling that three unions should represent municipal employees in the city. City officials had asked for only one union.

The Supreme Court had also held that fire captains and lieutenants were classified as supervisors and therefore exempt from a collective bargaining contract.

Local 617 in its rehearing request, had asked that captains and lieutenants be allowed to bargain collectively.

The reluctant dragons. ("How about a weekend pass, Sarge?")

Our ROTC days were peaceful. The regular army was down to 120,000 men—wars were over. Our fathers had seen to that on the Somme. In Bellau Wood and at Chateau-Thierry.

We drilled with their left-over rifles. Springfields. If you were in the rear rank, you leaned over quietly and released the safety catch of the boy's rifle in front of you.

This released the bolt so that it came out. At the command,

"Inspection—arms!"—the boy would jerk open the bolt of his rifle. Only instead of stopping at open, it flew out. Likely conked the boy next to him.

It was good, outdoor living. And the nation was safe in 15-year-old hands.

They were peaceful days. Not one of us expected to use what we were learning in ROTC. No war. No draft. ROTC graduates were not wanted in the Army.

At West Point and Annapolis, graduates were quietly advised to get out and into some other line of work. If you could make

The cadet captain then showed his leadership by leading us behind the ROTC building. He said: "Fall out, who's got a cigarette?"

Smoking at school was enough to get you expelled. We lived dangerously.

"Where will we get a citizen army?" asked a general before Congress. He was talking about cutbacks in ROTC.

Wars are fought by the reserves. The citizen-soldiers.

A bunch of high school ROTC boys passed by. Their shirt collars were open. (Take that man's name, Sergeant!)

ROTC is unpopular today. Protesters set fire to the ROTC building first. But when I was doing hup, two, three, faw (for the U.S.A. and four easy credits), we were looked on as defenders of the nation.

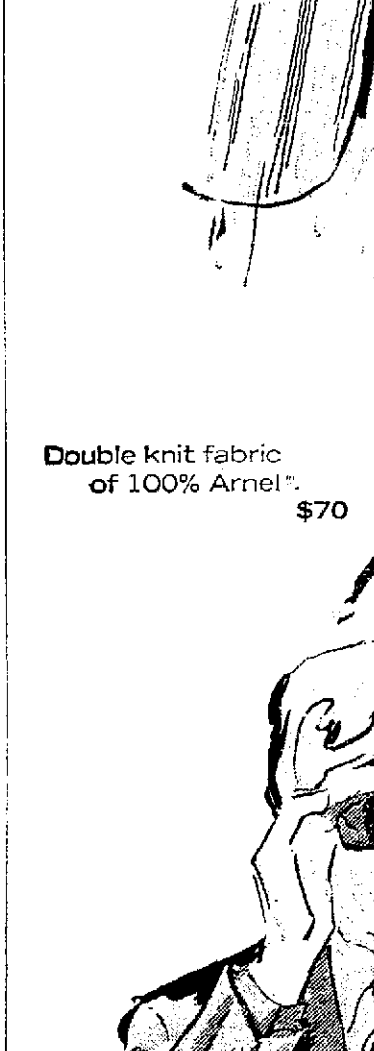

There was no war, or thought of war. (The war before had been the war to End Wars. ROTC was kind of Boy Scouting with an empty gun.) Anyway, we marched back and forth. Drill hadn't been changed since George B. McClellan said "squads right" to the Army of the Potomac.

We fixed bayonets. Advanced ferociously to. "Butt stroke! Cut over and jab!"

Years later there was another war, and we learned the true use of the bayonet: It is the world's finest can opener.

In June Suburban Fancy Turns Toward Vacation

Most of the time it is quite a feat just to get Mom Dad and all of the children around the dinner table much less getting all of the relatives and their relations, together in the same place, at the same time and at the same table

However, more and more families are participating in the annual reunions — possibly because it has become easier to get from one place to the other.

Two family reunions were held in suburbia on the same day recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Herman and her sons, Vernon and Bruce, were at the Belmont Community Center on "Reunion" day to welcome her relatives to the family get-together. The 60-some guests included her uncles and aunts Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rivers and Mr and Mrs. Nick Williams of Beatrice; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Williams, also of Beatrice.

Mr and Mrs. Lyle Rice attended a family reunion on the same day. The special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Christiansen of Granada, Calif., formerly of Lincoln, who were in the Midwest to visit with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Christiansen. Another special guest was the California couple's daughter, Mrs. Jim Merk of Marian, Iowa.

The Southwood Woman's Club will have a dinner at the Knolls on Tuesday evening, June 8. A card party at the Club House will follow the 6 o'clock dinner.

In spite of the flirtatious summer weather in Lincoln, these months are filled with travels and vacations. Often it is just a weekend jaunt to a favorite get-away-from-it-all spot. For others it is an extended trip or perhaps even a trip abroad.

One suburban family in particular, Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Jensen and their four children, Kathy, Tom, Karen and Kenny enjoyed a delightful holiday during the past weekend. Their journey from their Country Club Terrace home took them to Johnson Lake near Lexington. They were joined by Mrs. Jensen's sister, Mrs. Richard Frech of Casper, Wyoming, and her two children, Fred and David. The two families were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Richardson at their cabin on the lake.

Mrs. Frech and her two children ended their week's visit to Lincoln with the weekend at the lake. They had arrived on June 1 to help the Jensens celebrate a very special occasion, the graduation from Southeast High School of their oldest child, Kathy.

A hearty welcome is extended to a former Lincoln family who has just returned. They are Mr. and Mrs. Dan Mulder and their seven month old son, Danny. Mr. Mulder has just completed a six month engagement in the military service stationed in Louis and Oklahoma. During the six months, Mulder and Danny stayed with Mrs. Mulder's parents in Wymore. The couple is now rest in Wellington Greens.

Any child — or adult, for that matter — would give anything to spend an afternoon at the Zoo looking over all the animals they in turn give the onlookers the once-over too! There is no doubt that it is hard to beat an afternoon at the Zoo . . . but think we have heard of a way.

The magic afternoon at the zoo will naturally be enhanced by a party — especially if it is a birthday party like the one for Kevin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Garry A. Powell of Happy Hollow Heights, celebrated on Friday afternoon.

Seven-year old Kevin was joined by his sister and brother, Laurie and Greg, 12 friends who took in the afternoon view of the Zoo, riding the train, and naturally enjoying cake and ice cream.

The festivities were not quite over yet. That evening the Powell family joined by Mrs. Powell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Parker, and Mr Powell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Grasmick, for a party in honor of the new seven-year-old.

Early June Weddings

The wedding of Miss Phyllis Hilger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hilger of Fremont, and James Vandenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Vandenberg of David City, took place on Saturday afternoon, June 5, at the St. Francis Catholic Church in David City.

The four attendants, including Mrs. Leonard Shap, the matron of honor; bridesmaids Mrs. Donald Hilger of David City and Mrs. Charles Arnold; and Miss Kathryn Devall, the bridesmaid, wore alike, floor-length pant dresses of chiffon in the Mediterranean blue shade.

Guy Holman served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were Donald Hilger of David City, John Hilger, Al Hottovy, Bill Vandenberg, Bill Hilger, Max Hilger, and Nick Hottovy.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of silk organza and Venetian lace. The lace bordered the mandarin collar of the fitted bodice and was repeated to cap and to cuff the jacket sleeves. The lace also bordered the train which extended from back Empire height into cotillion length. Her train-length veil was held in place with a bandeau of petals of Venise lace and bows of organza.

The bride was graduated from the Lincoln School of Commerce.

Mr. Vandenberg was graduated from the College of Business Administration of the University of Nebraska.

At a 7 o'clock ceremony on Monday evening, June 7, the marriage of Miss Phyllis Ann Van Benthuyssen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Van Benthuyssen of Galveston, Tex., to Allan Preston Stone of Loveland, Colo., son of The Rev. Dr. and Mrs. George P. Stone took place at the Collegeview Seventh-Day Adventist Church. The bridegroom's father solemnized the candlelight service.

Alike, floor-length frocks of yellow voile were worn by the attendants, including Mrs. William H. Amsworth of Huntsville, Tex., who was her sister's matron of honor, and bridesmatron Mrs. O. D. Willhite of Denver, Colo.

Bud Trotter served as best man and the groomsmen and ushers were Larry Austin of Loveland, Colo., Don Austin, and O. D. Willhite of Denver, Colo.

A princess silhouette gown of white linen accented with Venise lace was chosen by the bride for her wedding. The lace, which fashioned the wedding band neckline and ornamented the brief sleeves, was repeated in a panel on the bodice. Her chapel-length mantilla veil was bordered with the lace.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park, Mr. Stone and his bride will reside in Loveland, Colo. The bride attended Union College and Mr. Stone was graduated from the college.

town talk

If we were given to gimmicks to whet everyone's curiosity we could play up some news that everyone would find very interesting. But that we won't do. We'll just say that what we have in mind is a wedding — and the main participants are exceedingly well known. We're sorry, but we aren't permitted to tell where, when — or even who.

But we can tell you about other exciting news from Texas. It involves a young man whose name is Daniel Emerson Pansing, and he arrived on Sunday, May 30. The baby's parents are Capt. and Mrs. Thomas R. Pansing, and his mother is the former Jennifer Inman — daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace D. Inman of Hastings — and a Kappa Kappa Gamma at Nebraska.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Pansing of Lincoln are the paternal grandparents as you may have guessed. We hear that in the not too distant future Mrs. Pansing will be going to Texas to greet her grandson.

Wednesday, June 30, is three weeks from tomorrow — some distance away — But a birthday is to be celebrated on that day, and we think all of her friends will be interested.

The birthday celebrant is Mrs. O. J. Fee who will be celebrating her 90th anniversary, but she won't be celebrating it alone. Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elton Fee of Santa Barbara, Calif., will be in Lincoln, and will be host and hostess at an open house for Mr. Fee's mother.

There is more to the story, and we'll finish it another day.

Miss Folsom has named Mrs. Rich Ligenza of Waverly and Miss Mary Snell as her honor attendants. Flowergirl will be Miss Tammy Ligenza of Waverly.

Ron Weston will serve Mr. Gibson as best man, and Rich Ligenza of Waverly will be groomsmen. Seating the guests will be Mike Folsom, brother of the future bride, and Vern Swenson. Tom Ligenza of Waverly will be ring bearer.

On Saturday afternoon, May 29, Miss Folsom was honored at a miscellaneous shower hosted by Miss Kay Henshaw at her home.

ABBY

the male majority says "yes"

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A girl signed "WONDERING" asked you how men felt about marrying an unwed mother, and you invited me to write in and tell her. Here's my story:

When I met my wife, she was 16 and five months pregnant. She told me all about herself and even who the baby's father was, but it didn't make one bit of difference to me. We were married a month before her baby was born, and I couldn't love my own flesh and blood more.

I admired this girl for being absolutely truthful from the start. A girl with two strikes against her tries twice as hard to show her appreciation for being treated with love and respect. I have been married to this wonderful girl for six years and we have had two other children, and I love them all the same.

LUCKY IN WENATCHEE

DEAR ABBY: In starting married life with another man's child, I would consider myself fortunate to have an unwed mother as my intended.

There would be no sessions of private grief for a killed-in-action husband, no trying to keep his memory alive in the child. No problems with previous in-laws or doting grandparents. And there would be no emotional hangovers from a previous marriage that mistreated or helped her live down her first love.

As far as I am concerned, unwed mothers are definitely choice material.

FRANK IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR ABBY: I would advise an unwed mother to keep the story of her mistake to herself. I married a girl who had had a child out of wedlock. She told me who the baby's father was and all the details of the whole rotten mess, and I have wished a thousand times that she hadn't told me. If she had made up a story about having been "raped" I would have been much happier.

CAN'T FORGET IN MINN.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell WONDERING not to wonder any more. No man of quality will think less of her for the mistake. I know. I met a lovely little woman, and I tell hard! She knew I was getting serious, so she confessed that altho she had never been married she had a child 6 years old. I met the child, and she won my heart! In less than a year I married the unwed mother and adopted her child. We subsequently had five other children and now have a grand total of 21 grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. We have had 55 beautiful years together, and I consider myself the luckiest man in the world.

NO REGRETS IN PENSACOLA

DEAR ABBY: I married an unwed mother 15 years ago, and we now have the most beautiful 16-year-old "mistake" in the world.

PROUD IN ALLENTOWN, PA.

A Controversial Wedding Cake

Washington (UPI) — Confident their recipe would work White House cooks started baking Tricia Nixon's wedding cake Saturday — without bothering to check their directions first, a spokesman said Thursday.

Consternation reigned in the White House kitchen last Wednesday after food writers and cooks across the country said the scaled down version of the recipe issued by the White House just wouldn't work — that it called for egg whites when it obviously meant whole eggs.

At first, Chef Henry Haller and pastry chef Heinz Bender decided to retest their formula but canceled that idea.

Then, Washington Post food writer, Mary Laker reported in Thursday's issue that it was a delicious, light pound cake.

"Henry's happy now," said Mrs. Connie Stuart, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon's staff director. He and Bender, she said, would start baking the 6-foot tall, 350-pound cake Saturday June 5 — in plenty of time for the wedding the following Saturday, June 12.

Mrs. Stuart said that Tricia considered the cake controversy funny and laughed about it. Mrs. Nixon, she said, thought it was "silly" since Haller had used the same recipe before in baking cakes for the First Family.

Mrs. Laker conceded that she made some changes in baking her cake — that she baked it an hour instead of 45 minutes because her oven was slower than most.

She also said she used a brown paper collar in her pan, which went unmentioned in the recipe first released by the White House, to prevent overflow of batter.

"I knew when I looked at all that batter it would not fit into the pan without a collar," she said.

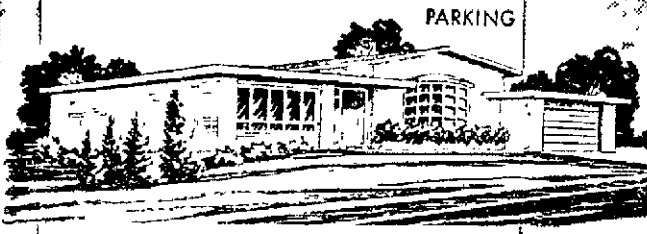

The New York Times kept the cake controversy bubbling when it reported Wednesday morning that its home economist tried the recipe and got "mush" and "soup" and a dirty oven from the overflowing batter. After that, the White House said it forgot to mention the paper collar for the pan in the recipe it originally put out.

The recipe called for using a 12 by 12 inch round pan. Mrs. Laker said she didn't have one that size so she substituted a skillet.

"A good recipe," she said. "But if I were baking it for myself, I would use two 6 by 16 inch pans two inches deep, then you wouldn't need the collar."

"I tried cutting the recipe in half and using one 6 by 16 inch pan. It came out beautifully, even better than my 12 inch version."

Opening lead — queen of clubs.

Long experience is of course extremely valuable, but one of the dangers associated with years of play is the adoption of a lethargic attitude toward commonplace situations.

Assume declarer ducks the club lead and wins the continuation with the king. He plays a heart and, after West follows low, finesses the nine.

If East wins with the queen, South finishes with at least ten tricks. Whatever East returns, South takes another heart finesse and then comes home in great style.

If East refuses the nine of hearts, South makes the contract anyhow. He tries a diamond finesse, which succeeds, returns to dummy with a heart to the ace, and repeats the diamond finesse. He scores nine tricks consisting of two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and two clubs.

But if West puts up the king of hearts when declarer first leads the suit, South will fail against proper defense. With this one play West permanently spikes declarer's chance for four heart tricks.

South may duck the king, hoping West also has the queen and planning to trap it later on with a finesse, or he may take the king with the ace and try a diamond finesse. Either way, he comes home lame.

West's play of the king is an exception to the general rule of playing second hand low on defense. General rules are subservient to special circumstances and they should be readily abandoned for cause.

West can certainly reason that if South has the queen the king is a totally dead card. He should therefore play the king on the assumption that East has the queen, and hope that by playing it he will hold declarer to one heart trick.

State Sewage Aid Is Running Short

By TIM AHERN
The Associated Press

State health officials said Monday some Nebraska municipalities will not receive as much money as was expected when the state enacted a state-aid program for municipal sewage treatment construction.

According to the officials, towns will be given state aid grants on the basis of project cost estimates drawn up before the state aid program was begun by the 1971 Legislature.

When the Legislature started the $6.6 million state aid program by enacting LB1006, some towns submitted second — and higher — cost estimates.

Inflation Blamed

State Environmental Health Officer T. A. Filipi said the higher second estimates were due to inflation which had occurred since the first estimates were made.

Before the state began its program, sewage treatment construction was funded 70% by local money and 30% by federal grants. LB1006 changes the formula to 25% state participation, 25% local, and 50% federal.

LB1006 was enacted to take advantage of federal funds which would have lapsed when the current fiscal year ends June 30.

Numerous municipalities around the state have applied for the state funds, said Filipi, and the State Water Pollution Control Council — the administrative agency for the state aid program — has responded by setting up a priority list which included 23 towns and cities.

Original Estimates

Filipi said the state has received copies of the municipalities' original total cost projections submitted to the federal government. They were then asked to resubmit their applications when LB1006 began moving toward passage in the Legislature.

In some cases, according to C. R. Starr, director of public health engineering, the second estimates are higher.

Filipi, in a letter to the municipalities, wrote "in the hurried processing of the requests, grant offers were made upon requests in many instances higher than the original application stipulated."

Money Didn't Last

"Therefore," said Filipi, "the state money did not reach as far as was expected in the setting up of our priority list which has been so widely distributed."

However, he emphasized that the state grant approvals have only been made thus far on paper and that no state money has yet been expended.

Hence the letter notifying some communities they may be getting less than they had been expecting, Filipi explained.

Starr said that the state and federal payments are not made at the beginning of a project but when construction is half completed.

Communities Seek Funds For Centers

A spokesman said Monday the State Advisory Commission on Aging will meet Tuesday to consider grants to four communities to establish senior citizen centers.

Commission Director Ronald Jensen said the four are all new projects and include the towns of Wahoo, Scottsbluff, Kimball and Lexington.

The centers, eligible for up to 75% federal funding and the remainder in local funds, would provide recreational opportunities, as well as as educational programs and social services, Jensen said.

For the first year of operation, Wahoo is requesting $7,500 in federal funds for a $10,000 total project; Scottsbluff, $6,000 federal for an $8,000 project; Kimball, $6,166 for a $10,240 project; and Lexington, $14,085 for a $20,968 center.

James A. Lake Is Elected University Senate President

For the first time, the senate of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has a member of the teaching faculty as its president.

He is James A. Lake Sr., a professor of law, whose election as chief of the faculty governing body was announced Monday.

A member of the NU staff since 1949, Lake holds degrees from NU, Harvard University and the University of Wisconsin.

He won the election in a contest beginning with five candidates and ending in a runoff with Wallace C. Peterson, professor of economics and chairman of that department.

The faculty senate, which originated in the 1870s, completed a revision in structure last year which called for election of a president from faculty ranks.

Until 1968, NU's chancellor served as the body's presiding officer. The president of the Lincoln campuses, Joseph Soshnik, had served in the post since a university reorganization following the acquisition of the former University of Omaha and its inclusion in the state university system.

Lake is a 1969 recipient of a university "distinguished teaching" award. This summer he will serve with two other NU-Lincoln faculty members on a study committee charged with drafting a governing document for the university system.

CAR SWERVED . . . to avoid bicycle, hit telephone pole.

Six Youths Hurt In Mishap

Six people were injured Monday afternoon when the driver of the car in which they were riding swerved to avoid a bicycle at 2411 W. A, left the road and hit a telephone pole headon, the county sheriff's office reported.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Christiansen identified the driver as Betty Shephard, 16, of Rt. 6, and the passengers as Mike Spadt, 14, of 611 So. 11th; Deborah Rogers, 18, of 3040 No. 43rd; Jon Simmer, 15, and Judy Simmer, 14, both of Rt. 6, and Gayle A. Cuba, 17, of 3410 No. Cotner.

Christiansen said the Rogers girl was admitted to Lincoln General with a fractured jaw and the Cuba girl for a fractured hip. The Rogers girl was listed in "good" condition Monday afternoon, and the Cuba girl was reported "fair."

A spokesman at Lincoln General said the four others were treated and released for minor cuts, scrapes and bruises.

Beatrice Seeks Better Crossings

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — The Beatrice City Council Monday night voted to inform railroad lines crossing city streets that within a month, or as soon as possible, the rail companies must improve all crossings within city limits.

The council also agreed that the rail lines must mow the grass along the right-of-way. The manager of the Board of Public Works, George Schumacher, said that he has never gotten cooperation without threat of legal action from the rail lines and results have been a long time coming.

Council member Harry Milke requested City Atty. Earl Ahlschweide to inform all railroads of a city ordinance prohibiting the blockage of any city street for longer than five minutes. Milke was protesting a "20 to 30 minute" blocking of certain city streets and, as he put it, preventing fire protection and ambulance service for the west side of Beatrice.

The city council voted to end tree burning behind the Board of Public Work's service building at First and Ella due to the area becoming filled. Hereafter the public must burn trees at the city dump after obtaining fire department approval.

Relating to this discussion Mayor Robert Sargent said that Beatrice will have to have a new solid waste disposal site by next year. The possibility of a county-wide site will be explored.

Several dates were set by the council at the Monday meeting, a special meeting June 22, 7:30 p.m. for study and possible approval of remodification of the city ordinances; since the next regular meeting of the council falls on Monday, July 5, the council voted to hold the meeting the following night, Tuesday, July 6, budget hearings will be held on the following nights, Wednesday, June 9 for the fire department and auditor-

Vicary Receives Top Certificate

Duane Vicary, assistant general manager of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce, has been named a certified industrial developer (CID) by the American Industrial Development Council, Inc., of Boston.

The award is given for professional competence in the practice of industrial development and is the highest status achieved by persons in the field.

The council said the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce is one of only two Chambers in the 15,000-member world organization to have two certified industrial developers on its staff. Earlier this year, John R. Fraker, executive vice president of the Lincoln Chamber, was designated a charter CID.

Marines End Fighting Role In Vietnam

Saigon (UPI) — The U.S. Marines, first American combat troops in Vietnam, have ended their role as a fighting force in the war, military spokesmen said Monday.

American troop strength in Vietnam coincidentally dropped unofficially below 250,000 for the first time in more than five years.

The high point was 543,400 in April 1969, and the official level given Monday was 250,900. Withdrawals are at the rate of about 14,300 a month.

The U.S. Command announced that the 3rd Marine Amphibious Brigade headquarters, along with support units totaling 1,240 men, began packing up Monday. The units included a 585-man military police battalion.

Girls With Flowers

Fewer than 3,000 Marines will remain after the latest withdrawals, most of them in advisory groups. The Leathernecks first arrived in the war zone March 8, 1965, splashing from landing boats onto a beach at Da Nang. They were met by girls bearing garlands of flowers.

Marine strength peaked at 87,000 in March 1969.

Based at Da Nang, 360 miles northeast of Saigon, they commanded all U.S. forces in South Vietnam's five northernmost provinces until early last year when command switched to the Army.

Below Quarter Million

The U.S. Command reported that as of Thursday 250,900 GIs were left in Vietnam, a drop of 4,800 during the week. Military sources said that withdrawals since then dipped the figure below a quarter million. Presi-

The figures for each service were given as: Army 197,500 (down 2,600 from the previous week), Navy 11,200 (down 100), Marines 4,300 (down 1,500), Air Force 37,800 (down 600), Coast Guard 100 (unchanged).

Free world forces, primarily from South Korea, Thailand, Australia, and New Zealand, dropped by 100 to 66,500, the command said.

State Board Of Education Appeals Hartington Ruling

The State Board of Education Monday asked the Nebraska Supreme Court to overturn a Lancaster District Court ruling which involves the state's controversial ban on the use of public money for private schools.

The board asked the high court to reverse a ruling by District Court Judge Elmer Scheele in favor of the Hartington School District in a suit brought by the school district against the board.

The State Education Department, according to the Hartington suit in the District Court, had disallowed a school district application for federal funds for remedial reading and mathematics programs because the projects involved the use of leased classrooms in the Hartington Cedar Catholic High School building.

The state constitution bans the use of "public" money for "private" schools, contended the state board Monday in its brief filed with the supreme court.

A constitutional amendment to drop the prohibition failed to pass in last November's general election.

In his order, Scheele said the board of education should approve Hartington's application.

The State Equal Opportunity Commission will hold its monthly meeting June 16 in Omaha, Director Reid Devoe announced Monday.

The meeting will be held in the United Community Services building, beginning at 9 a.m.

$250,000 For Might

While they're talking in terms of $4 million for Canero II as a sire, a horse quartered at Ak-Sar-Ben may find himself in the quarter of a million dollar bracket for the same kind of work.

One source indicates that C. E. Nicholas, who admits he's trying to phase out his stable and that he might have Might sold, has been offered $250,000 for the 5-year-old son of Bold Ruler.

Might has won about $85,000 for Nicholas, including the $40,000 Omaha Gold Cup as a 3-year-old in 1969 and Nicholas points out, "He's got good breeding and should make someone a good sire."

Speaking of the $4 million reportedly offered for Canero II and turned down by owner Pedro Baptista a couple weeks ago, famed jockey Bill Shoemaker opined, "To me, that's where two fools met."

Dean Williams, racing secretary for the State Fairgrounds meeting that opens on July 7, has accepted stall applications for two Ak-Sar-Ben stakes winners and for the thoroughbred with the best time for three-quarters of a mile at Ak-Sar-Ben this season.

Stall space has been allocated for Tom Chaffee's Tripville, winner of the $25,000-added King's Handicap, and Victor and Otto Preuss' Sonny's Delight, winner of the $15,000-added Queen's Handicap, as well as Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Nickolite's Swift Capture, who ran 6 furlongs in 1:09 on May 4 in capturing an allowance feature.

Only Three Entries

Much ado has been made over the size of the 20-horse field that ran in this year's Kentucky Derby, but the 1892 and 1905 Derbies contained only three entries each.

And two of the three in the 1892 Derby, Huron and Phil Dwyer, were both owned by Ed Corrigan and ran 2-3 as an entry with the winner being Azra.

In 1905, Agile paid 33 cents on the dollar in defeating Ram's Horn and Layson.

Dog racing bills in both New Hampshire and Michigan legislatures have passed early tests with Michigan's House giving its blessing to the sport and sending the measure to the Senate while the New Hampshire Legislature, working in vice versa fashion, has done the same thing.

In Nebraska you'll recall the idea failed to get out of committee in the past Unicameral session.

While Ak-Sar-Ben was setting an all-time attendance and betting record on Memorial Day with 25,489 betting $1,466,352, Denver's Centennial track could slightly more than half those totals in two days, Sunday and Monday with a Sunday crowd of 6,674 betting $302,854 and a Memorial Day turnout of 7,353 wagering $359,820.

There's likely to be a new owner going to the Ak-Sar-Ben offices to pick up the winner's share of the $50,000-added Cornhusker Handicap on June 19.

Mrs. Raymond Bauer, whose Vale of Tears won it in 1968 and 1969, then had Blazing Silk step in a year ago to win when Vale of Tears began to fade, doesn't have a good candidate for a fourth straight victory.

Vale of Tears has been retired for breeding purposes and Blazing Silk, a gelding who nearly had to be destroyed after suffering a leg injury, was saved simply for sentimental reasons.

Baseball's Free Agent Draft Begins Today

... HISTORY SHOWS JUST 3 OF 10 FIRST-ROUND CHOICES WILL MAKE MAJORS

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball will proceed with the risky business of drafting free agent talent Tuesday, treading with some trepidation into an arena that history shows sends only three out of every 10 first-round selections to the major leagues.

While the No. 1 draft choices in pro football and pro basketball almost invariably wind up paying substantial dividends, the situation is uniquely different in baseball, where the draftees are far less developed and, therefore, more of a question mark.

It's a situation guaranteed to make the most talented scout look ridiculous.

"Sure we get criticized," admits Joe McDonald, the farm director of the New York Mets. "But everyone gets criticized. Fans don't understand. There's no way of telling. You just can't tell."

What you can't tell is whether a No. 1 will eventually reach the majors. Of 80 first choices from the years 1965—the start of the draft—to 1968 just 24 are in the majors. The draftees in 1969 and 1970 still are climbing the minor league ladder.

But those who have risen from No. 1 draft choice to the majors include players such as Reggie Coleman, Rick Monday, Richie Hebner, Joe Coleman, Billy Conigliaro, Gary Nolan, Wayne Simpson and Thurman Munson—and that's what the drafting is all about.

The top priority items in this year's three-stage draft figure to be catchers and pitchers, both in the regular phase that begins Tuesday at 10 a.m., EDT, and the two secondary phases scheduled to wind up the draft sessions Wednesday.

The Chicago White Sox, who select first in both the regular phase and secondary phase active, already have said they will pick Danny Kay Goodwin, a 17-year-old catcher from Peoria, Ill. Washington will choose first in the secondary phase delayed. Other leading draft prospects include catchers Glen Borgmann of the University of South Alabama and Pete Varney of Harvard and pitchers Bert Hooten of Texas; Pete Broberg of Dartmouth; Mike Pazik of Holy Cross; Roy Thomas of Longmear H.S., Calif., and Roger Cueroa of Ball H.S., Galveston, Tex.

Thomas and Cueroa will be available in the regular phase draft of players who have never been selected before. Varney is in the secondary phase active category of players drafted last year who did not sign and are eligible again. Borgmann, Hooten, Broberg and Pazik are in the secondary phase delayed category for players previously drafted who were not eligible for re-draft last year.

Nebraskans Flunk Open Qualifying

By Associated Press

Seven Nebraskans, bidding for a spot in the U.S. Open golf tournament, all failed to qualify as regional eliminations were held across the country Monday.

Merle Backlund, Charlie Borner and Rick Schultz all were entered in a field of 34 at Golden, Colo., where amateur Paul Purtzker, a 22-year-old Arizona State University graduate and two professionals topped the field.

Purtzker, of Phoenix, who shot a 69-73-142 trailed pros Bill Bisdorf, of Evergreen, Colo., who shot a 70-67-137, and George Keys, of Phoenix, who came in at 71-70-141.

Former PGA champion Dow Finsterwald was in the field but missed the cut after firing a 74-73-147.

Other Nebraskans in action Monday were Jim Shade in Chicago, while Paul Wilcox and Mike Ley competed in St. Louis.

In Cincinnati, Sam Carmichael, a former tour player from Martinsville, Ind., fired a three-under-par 139 to win medalist honors.

The other qualifiers Monday were Jim O'Hern, a professional from Goshen, Ky., who fired a 72-69-141, and Harcourt Kemp, of Louisville, Ky., with a 73-69-142. Kemp is an amateur and is a stock broker.

Cards Rally For Win

By Associated Press

Ted Simmons singled home the winning run in the 10th inning Monday night, giving St. Louis a 7-6 victory over Atlanta after the streaking Cardinals poured across four runs with two out in the ninth to tie the score.

Willie Stargell slammed his 19th home run and drove across three runs to rally the Pittsburgh Pirates to a windblown 11-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday.

Reliever Bob Priddy, who gave up the tying hit in the ninth, hit Matty Alou with a pitch to open the 10th. Alou stole second and scored on Simmons' single.

Atlanta starter Ron Reed breezed into the ninth with a 6-2 lead but singles by Simmons, Joe Torre and Joe Hagge loaded the bases with one out. Pinch hitter Leron Lee struck out but Ted Sizemore doubled home two runs, knocking out Reed. Jerry McNertney, another pinch hitter, greeted Priddy with a game-tying double.

It was the Cardinals' 19th victory in their last 26 games and enabled them to maintain their half-game lead over Pittsburgh in the National League East.

The hitting of Hank Aaron and Ralph Garr helped the Braves to their 6-2 lead, with Aaron collecting two doubles and two singles in lifting his batting average above .300 for the first time this season.

The Braves broke a 2-2 deadlock with three runs in the seventh inning. Zoilo Versalles doubled and scored when first baseman Hagge overthrew third on Reed's sacrifice. Reed then moved to third on Garr's single and scored on a wild pitch. Aaron doubled home Garr.

Garr's eighth-inning single, his third hit, drove in Atlanta's final run.

Stargell, leading the majors in both departments, drilled a two-run homer in the first and a run-producing single in a four-run Pirates' fifth which erased a 6-5 Cubs lead and swelled the Pittsburgh slugger's RBI total to 52.

Al Oliver belted a two-run homer and Bob Robertson hit a solo homer to chase Cub's starter Milt Pappas, 6-6, in the fifth as the Bucs moved ahead 9-6 after once trailing 6-3.

Top Senator Draft Choice May Be Immediate Starter

Washington (AP) — Owner Bob Short says the player drafted by his Washington Senators in the secondary phase of the draft meeting beginning today in New York will be in the lineup Thursday against the Kansas City Royals.

Short made his comment after a meeting Sunday evening in his office at RFK Stadium. Attending were vice president Joe Burke, manager Ted Williams, traveling secretary Burt Hawkins, farm director Hal Keller and the team's coaches.

He said the meeting, coming after the Senators dropped their fourth in a row and moved deeper into last place, was about the draft this week and the trading deadline June 15.

"Our pitching is better than we figured," he said. "So we have to go for some hitting."

The top four picks in the secondary phase of the draft, in which the Senators have first choice could be pitchers Pete Broberg of Dartmouth and Burt Hooten of Texas, outfielder Rob Ellis of Michigan State and catcher Glen Borgman of South Alabama.

If the Senators can sign their first pick, he will join the team immediately.

Short will seek a trade, probably giving up pitcher Dick Bosman, the most likely in exchange for a hitter if the top choice is not signed.

The last 31 hits by the Senators have been singles.

Short apparently has become disgusted with the players on his team and is just about ready to overrule Williams and bring up young players without major league experience.

Worster, Covey Named Shrine Bowl Royalty

Patty Worster of Lincoln and Gary Covey of Omaha were announced as the Queen and King for the 13th annual Shrine Bowl all-star football game at a luncheon in Lincoln Monday.

Patty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Worster, and Gary, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Covey, will reign during the game to be played at the University of Nebraska's Memorial Stadium on Sat., Aug. 21.

Both youngsters have been patients at the Shrine hospital for crippled children, the recipient of money raised by the annual gridiron contest.

Shrine Bowl of Nebraska president Augie Ruser of Omaha, in making the announcement, said, "Our Shrine organization is happy that we have a chance through this game to give something to those less fortunate than we."

Lou Roper and Earl Stewart are co-chairmen for the charity event, replacing longtime chairman Bob Russell, who was forced to quit the post for health reasons.

Ted Lundt was announced as the office manager for the Shrine, handling the details of tickets, advertising and his organization for the game.

Bahnsen Credits Win To Better Control

New York (AP) — What you can't see is what you get from Stan Bahnsen.

"My fast ball still gets up there, although I don't throw quite as hard as I once did," the New York Yankee right-hander says.

Now the big fellow has come up with a new wrinkle—control. His latest effort, a six-hit, 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals Sunday, featured only one walk. It was his third straight one-walk game — and his third straight complete-game victory.

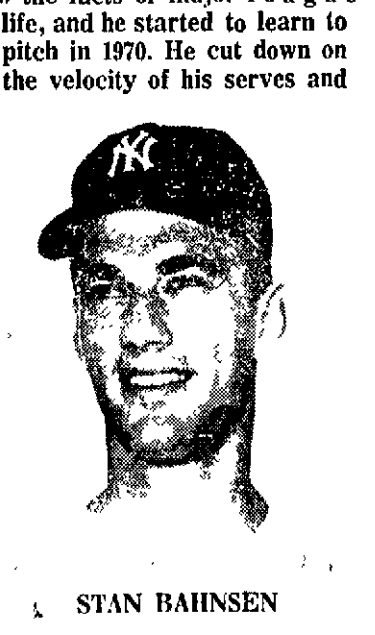

The Yankees staked Bahnsen, former Nebraska star, to a 5-0 lead in the third inning and withstood successive sixth inning homers by Amos Otis and Ed Kirkpatrick in stopping the Royals after six straight wins.

"I'm pitching to spots and keeping the ball down better than ever," says the blond, 6-3, 197-pounder. "I'm getting every pitch over—including the change-up and the slider."

Bahnsen's fast ball was his "out" pitch when he first came up to the majors in 1968 and notched 17 victories, including 162 strikeouts.

But it wasn't so easy the second time around, when the hitters knew what was coming. It resulted in a 9-16 season in 1969, including a pro career high of 90 walks.

The year woke up Bahnsen

added an assortment of deliveries to his arsenal. He won 14 games in 1970.

A slow start this year, one victory in seven decisions, told Bahnsen he wasn't out of the woods yet. So he worked harder on his control.

Thus, three straight triumphs. "Keeping the ball down has to help a pitcher," said Bahnsen. "Instead of the strikeouts, I'm getting the hitters to hit the ball into the ground — and my team has been giving me the good defense."

Bahnsen's latest pitch is the change-up—something you've got to perfect when pitching

Pass Catcher Nearly Scratched From Belmont

... WINNER RAN WITH ANKLE INJURY

By DAVE FELDMAN
(c) 1971, Chicago Daily News

Wonders never cease in horse racing. It wasn't that Canonero II blew the Triple Crown. He was a very weak favorite. The oddity of the Belmont result was that the winner — Pass Catcher — was almost scratched.

Maybe an hour and a half before the Belmont I was told by Belmont officials to tell Pass Catcher's trainer — Eddie Yowell — to go to his barn immediately if I saw him. "Tell him his groom says the horse isn't acting right and that he has to be scratched," I was told.

Later, I saw owner Peter Kissel pacing in front of Pass Catcher's stall. He appeared worried.

Shortly after that I spotted Yowell. He said that although the colt had a welt on his right rear ankle (he had kicked himself) he decided to run him anyway.

Later I learned the welt left the ankle with a mild infection.

the grass in this country to give them more early speed.

Grass training seems to change a horse's rhythm, in that he'll stride quicker early in the race.

That's what happened to Canonero II. He broke running. All other 12 starters were easy to rate. Jockey Gustavo Avila tried in vain to take the horse back, to settle him down, to race him so that he could have something left for the long race and stretch.

Jacklin Quits After Threat

Belfast, Northern Ireland (P) — Britain's Tony Jacklin, who was threatened with death if he played in the Ulster Open golf championships this month, has pulled out of the tournament.

The tobacco company sponsoring the event said Monday Jacklin had notified them of his decision after receiving an anonymous phone call.

The caller said that if Jacklin played he would be shot and his wife's home in Northern Ireland would be bombed.

Jacklin presently is in the United States. When the threat was first made he said: "It may be some crank, but on the other hand it may be something to do with the Irish Republican Army." The IRA is campaigning to end British rule in Northern Ireland.

Jacklin had planned to use the Ulster Open as a warm-up for the British Open tournament at Birkdale in July — the event he won two years ago.

Harrison will report to the Royals Tuesday night when they meet the Washington Senators here. He is leading the AA in three departments, in hitting with a .365 average, in home runs with 11 and in runs batted in with 38.

Lockheed Near Breaking Point

... SAYS TREASURY CHIEF

Washington (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally testified Monday that if congressional aid for Lockheed Aircraft Corp doesn't come within 40 days tens of thousands of jobs may be lost and economic recovery endangered.

But Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said the Senate and House will require far longer than that to consider the merits of the Nixon administration's plan to grant Lockheed, the nation's largest defense contractor, guarantees for up to $250 million in new loans.

Cautioning the Senate Banking Committee not to "dawdle," Connally said Lockheed is now spending $5 million a week of its own and bank money to keep alive its commercial L1011 airbus project.

Money Near Exhaustion He said the money will be near exhaustion and the firm's financial situation critical 30 days from now and said Congress must act no later than 10 days after that.

Proxmire questioned the wisdom of insulating huge corporations from failure, said Lockheed is a firm with an "infinite capacity for mismanagement," and declared Congress must not set a precedent which would encourage attempts by other corporations to save themselves through federal support.

Connally disagreed, saying the shock of a Lockheed failure would light the fires of economic war in the union hall as well as the corporate boardroom.

Restoration of confidence means the elimination of fear, he said.

"And just at this time with the economy moving ahead and unemployment topping out, the allure of the nation's largest science contractor — with 72,000 employees earning $830 million a year, 35,000 suppliers, and $2.5 billion in annual sales — would, beyond any shadow of a doubt, generate deep seated fears," Connally said.

Connally cited and Proxmire challenged what the Treasury secretary said were historic precedents for the action.

Fears 'Not Timely' And at one point Connally said Proxmire's fears for the free enterprise system are not timely.

"We sometimes kid ourselves that it is a free enterprise system, but it isn't all that free," Connally said.

He referred to the multiple controls and regulations set by the federal government as rules by which free enterprise is limited and business conducted.

At another point, Connally stated the problem in a slightly different fashion: "Some aspects of this frankly trouble me and are difficult to defend on the basis of a strictly free-enterprise system."

But he insisted the Lockheed situation is unique — or nearly so.

Connally said he believes some of the nation's huge corporations have reached a size so vast, and require funds so astronomical in size that their cash demands nearly defy the ability of the nation's traditional lending institutions to meet them.

Lockheed's current crisis was precipitated by the failure of Britain's Rolls Royce, maker of luxury automobiles and jet engines, in this case the engines of the Lockheed airbus.

Proxmire said the guaranteed loan rescue plan also entails the indirect rescue of Rolls Royce, a firm in direct competition with such American firms as General Electric.

My Lai Incident Said Caused By 'Terror Tactics'

Ft Meade, Md. (AP) — The Viet Cong used "terror tactics" to anger U.S. troops and provoke them into slaughtering civilians at My Lai, the civilian defense counsel for Col. Oran K. Henderson said Monday.

Henry Rothblatt, the lawyer, said during a pretrial hearing that Communists have long used terror methods to goad enemy soldiers into committing foolish acts which can be used for propaganda advantage.

Rothblatt said high-echelon American commanders in the Pentagon and in Vietnam were aware of the tactics, but failed to instruct field commanders to alert troops to the dangers of reacting to provocations.

Nader Aims At Medical Profession

Atlantic City, N.J. (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader said Monday he is organizing a team of doctors to monitor the medical profession in the same way "Nader's Raiders" keep tabs on the federal government and the auto industry.

The team will focus its attention on food and drug regulations and any gap between high costs and low quality medical care.

Nader said there is too much secrecy surrounding hospital operations and not enough impetus for changes within the medical profession.

"The medical world itself doesn't have an institutionalized mechanism for criticism," Nader said, in a speech to members of the Catholic Hospital association.

The team will be called the Public Interest Medical group and start its work this summer with two or three full time physicians and several volunteer doctors and medical students.

Over and above everything else, the medical profession is an industry," Nader said.

The group will first develop an information base to coordinate research about hospitals and then write a list of standards consumers can use to judge which is the best hospital and the best doctor.

Nader also wants to spur community participation in hospital management.

"Obviously professional expertise would still be needed, but a balance must be struck between expertise and community involvement," Nader said.

"Nader's Raiders," the nickname for lawyers working for Nader's Center for Study of Responsive Law, have published critiques of the Interstate Commerce Commission and other federal agencies.

AEC Considers Tightening Nuclear Power Plant Rules

Washington (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission proposed in effect Monday that radiation protection standards for the public as regards light-water nuclear power plants be tightened 100-fold compared with present standards.

The commission, in announcing this, did not call for a change of the standards themselves. But it proposed new regulations for power plants that would be designed effectively to do so.

A commission spokesman said at a news conference that any plant not meeting the new regulations after a reasonable time, could be fined or even closed down.

In effect, the proposed new regulations are 10 times more strict than critics of the AEC notably Drs. John Gofman and Arthur Tamplin both AEC scientists, have called for.

But Harold Price, the AEC's chief of licensing regulation, said the AEC had been exploring possibilities for introducing tighter rules for the past two years, long before Gofman and Tamplin started criticizing the present standards.

The AEC, in an announcement, amplified at a news briefing said that under the proposed new guidelines "Nuclear power plants would be designed to limit radioactivity in effluents discharged gaseous and other materials to levels that would keep resultant radiation exposures to persons living near the plants to less than 5 percent of the average natural background radiation under proposed guidelines."

"Such exposures would be about one percent or less of the federal radiation protection guides for individual members of the public."

Natural background radiation is that which is always present in the environment. It comes from such sources as cosmic rays and radioactive materials in the ground.

Present federal radiation protection standards permit 500 milliroentgens per year for individuals from man-made radiation, and a "safety factor" reducing this to 170 milliroentgens is included where exposure might simultaneously involve "a suitable sample of the population," as distinguished from individual exposures.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
